

# xHeal Reddit Rules-Safe Playbook

Last updated: 2026-03-06

Use with: ./brand/reddit-30-day-calendar.md

## Purpose

This playbook gives subreddit-specific posting constraints so the team can execute safely without avoidable removals or spam flags.

## Global Safety Rules

- Always disclose affiliation when product is mentioned.
- Prefer value-first comments over standalone promotion.
- Start with no-link contributions in new communities.
- If a mod removes content, acknowledge and adapt immediately.
- Never offer diagnosis/treatment claims.

Standard disclosure:

"Disclosure: I m part of the xHeal team."

## Subreddit-by-Subreddit Guidance

### r/ChronicIllness

- Risk level: Medium
- Safe format:
  - Discussion questions
  - Shared lived-experience patterns
  - Plain-text templates in comments
- Avoid:
  - Repeated app-store links
  - "Download now" style CTAs
- Link policy mode:
  - Week 1-2: no links
  - Week 3+: links only if asked or clearly relevant
- Best post angle:
  - "What patterns show up before your flare-ups?"

### r/ChronicPain

- Risk level: Medium
- Safe format:
  - Empathetic comments + practical tracking advice
  - Appointment prep checklists
- Avoid:
  - Product-forward threads as first contribution
- Link policy mode:
  - Conservative; one link max per 2 weeks
- Best post angle:
  - "What helps you prepare for short specialist visits?"

### r/IBD

- Risk level: Medium-High
- Safe format:
  - Condition-specific process questions
  - Food/symptom/sleep pattern tracking experiences
- Avoid:

- Broad generic wellness talk
- Link policy mode:
  - Link only after active thread engagement
- Best post angle:
  - "Which data format helped your GI appointment most?"

### r/Fibromyalgia

- Risk level: Medium
- Safe format:
  - Validation-first comments
  - Multi-trigger tracking discussion
- Avoid:
  - Overly technical biohacking language
- Link policy mode:
  - Rare, only when user asks for tools/templates
- Best post angle:
  - "How do you track trigger combinations without overwhelm?"

### r/Autoimmune

- Risk level: High
- Safe format:
  - General support and organizational workflows
  - Questions about timeline sharing with care teams
- Avoid:
  - Any diagnosis-adjacent language
  - Any implication of medical replacement
- Link policy mode:
  - No proactive links; only by explicit request
- Best post angle:
  - "What helps your specialist get full context fast?"

### r/PCOS

- Risk level: Medium
- Safe format:
  - Practical appointment and trend-tracking discussion
  - Questions about what changed care conversations
- Avoid:
  - One-size-fits-all advice
- Link policy mode:
  - Soft links only after value thread is established
- Best post angle:
  - "Which data points changed your treatment conversation?"

### r/Biohackers

- Risk level: Medium
- Safe format:
  - Methods, n-of-1 experiments, signal-stack critique
  - Clear limits: correlation vs causation
- Avoid:
  - Vague marketing claims
- Link policy mode:
  - Allowed more often if technically useful and transparent
- Best post angle:
  - "Feedback wanted on a flare early-warning signal stack"

### r/QuantifiedSelf

- Risk level: Medium
- Safe format:
  - Measurement frameworks, logging protocols, experiment design
- Avoid:
  - Non-technical generic promo
- Link policy mode:
  - Share resources with methodological value
- Best post angle:
  - "What correlations failed in your own data?"

## Copy Variants by Risk Level

### No-Link Variant (default)

"Useful pattern I keep seeing: combinations usually matter more than isolated metrics. If helpful, I can paste a plain-text template here. Disclosure: I'm part of the xHeal team."

### Soft-Link Variant (asked/requested)

"Since you asked, here's the resource: [URL]. If links aren't preferred, I can paste the full template directly in-thread. Disclosure: I'm part of the xHeal team."

### High-Risk Subreddit Variant

"I won't drop links here unless requested. If useful, I can share the full checklist as plain text in this thread. Disclosure: I'm part of the xHeal team."

## Removal Recovery Script

"Thanks for the moderation. Understood. I'll keep it non-promotional and share plain-text resources only unless links are requested."

## Escalation Matrix

- First removal in subreddit:
  - Pause posting there for 72 hours
  - Resume comments only, no links
- Second removal in 30 days:
  - Pause subreddit for 14 days
  - Re-enter with pure discussion content
- Direct mod warning:
  - Stop product mentions entirely in that subreddit

## Team Operating Checklist

Before posting:

- Is this value-first?
- Is disclosure included if xHeal is mentioned?
- Is this subreddit in no-link mode today?
- Are we avoiding diagnosis/treatment framing?

After posting:

- Log link/no-link decision
- Log sentiment and any mod feedback
- Track replies and upvotes for message refinement
