Progress usually starts as clarity, not perfection.

Hi [First Name],

By week four, the first changes are usually not dramatic symptoms shifts.

They are:

- faster recovery from off days
- clearer understanding of likely triggers
- more confidence in daily choices

That is real progress.

If your adherence has not been perfect, you are still on track. The win is building a system you can keep using, not a streak you eventually break.

Take 2 minutes and review your trend highlights so far.
